The 16th Annual Taste of Tremont presented by MetroHealth System will take place on Sunday July 15, 2018 from 12:00 PM to 8:00 PM. The street festival will be held in the heart of Tremont’s “restaurant district” and showcase the best of Tremont’s food, art and entertainment. Professor Avenue will be blocked off, inclusive of commercial areas of Literary, College, Jefferson and Starkweather. The best part is that admission is free!!!

Tremont is home to the best chefs in the region, an eclectic mix of retail and a rich history and cultural heritage. Taste is an opportunity to showcase our great neighborhood and share with our Cleveland friends why we are proud to be Tremonters! This year promises some exciting culinary “Tastes” (of over 25 food vendors) including some of Tremont Farmers Market vendors and live music, so plan on spending the day in Tremont and enjoy live music, shopping and sampling the cuisines of all Tremont’s famous restaurants. There will be live entertainment in the Butcher and the Brewer Beer Garden with local music – Duo Decibel System, SLAP, and Big Ship playing throughout the afternoon (located at the north end of Professor) and at the Tremont Farmers’ Market stage sponsored by Cleveland Water (located at the south end of Professor). Other sponsors include The Shelley Company, Howard Hanna - Ted Theophylactos, John and Karen Moss, Howard Hanna - Carolyn Bentley, and CLE Clothing Co.

Trio Plants Roots in Tremont
Written by Jimmy Perkins

Whether Tremont realizes it or not, Trio, a new modern American restaurant on the corner of West 14th and Auburn Avenue, has been working towards opening with neighborhood residents in mind. From their cuisine, to the renovations, to the restaurant’s name and logo, Tremont and its residents were at the heart of it all.

Shortly after Bac closed their doors at 2661 West 14th, new owners Anthony Scolaro and Meghan Pender prepared to open their second location in a new neighborhood. The pair also runs One Eleven Bistro in Medina. “Trio is an ode to both One Eleven and the Tremont Community,” said Scolaro.

Scolaro, who is also Trio’s Executive Chef, has always enjoyed the neighborhood and sense of togetherness. When by chance he was contacted about the old Bac location, he and Pender jumped at the chance to join the community. The building bones, parking, and of course the location made this expansion an easy decision,” said Scolaro. “This neighborhood is just different than most,” he continued.

Trio’s menu will be a bit different and will feature more variety and changes than that of Bistro One Eleven. “We’ll have a more involved approach with more integrity. We’re going to push the boundaries,” said Scolaro. The menu is made up of small plates like carbonara and scallops, entrees like halibut, wagyu, and Walleye, and desserts like trifles and Tiramisu.

“We want to be a neighborly place for great food, but with an experience included as well,” said Scolaro. The experience can be seen through the recent decoration and redesign. Pender, Trio’s General Manager, played a large role in the renovation and reuse of Trio’s interior. With the help of family and friends, the team repurposed and stained pallets that now make up the bar backdrop, shelving, and host stand.

Trio also enlisted the help of local artist Clay Lindt for art that reflects the Tremont Community. The interior has a true rustic, industrial feel. “The name, art, and logo of Trio reflect our wish to plant our roots here,” said Pender. “Trio also represents the parts of a restaurant as we see them: food, bar, and service,” she continued. Pender and Scolaro have been impressed with the staying power of Tremont restaurants like Fahrenheit, Dante, and Parallax and they hope to remain here just as long. “It’s not every day an opportunity like this comes up,” said Scolaro. “But with the people in this community, and our high level of cooking, we knew we could make it work,” he continued.

Trio, which opened officially on June 22nd, will be open Monday through Saturday. 3 PM to 10 PM weekdays and 3 PM to 11 PM weekends. Happy hour on weekdays will be 3 PM to 6 PM. Learn more about Trio, view the menu, and discover upcoming events at triotremont.com.

Welcome to CLEVELAND

National Geographic Traveler reveals the City of Champions among its 2018 Best of the World destinations.

Every year, National Geographic Traveler unveils 21 must-see destinations throughout the world — places ranging from Dublin, Ireland, and Sydney, Australia, to Oahu, Hawaii and, this year, Cleveland, Ohio. Honored by this recognition, Public Square, a 6-acre urban park nestled in the heart of the City of Champions, encourages visitors to discover the dynamic, energizing vibe of Cleveland’s people and culture.

Public Square serves as the city’s center of life, where people gather and travel from west to east and north to south through Cleveland’s many avenues of transportation. It’s a destination that allows residents and visitors to understand and appreciate the city’s core, a place where everything happens. It’s where Cleveland’s government presides, businesses thrive, sports teams play, fans cheer, musicians perform and theaters entertain. Public Square is a haven of culture and entertainment waiting to welcome visitors to experience Cleveland at its finest.

THE IMPACT OF PARTNERSHIP: PUBLIC SQUARE

As downtown Cleveland prepared itself for new growth and investment, Mayor Frank Jackson appointed a new Group Plan Commission to update the original Group Plan from 1903. Three priority projects were identified — Public Square, the Mall and the Pedestrian Bridge connecting downtown to the lakefront.

To complete these projects and spur an additional wave of transformational developments, the Group Plan Commission assembled a team of partners with the necessary motivation and expertise to get the job done. To accomplish this feat, the Group Plan Commission joined forces with the City of Cleveland, Cuyahoga County, LAND Studio, Greater Cleveland Partnership and Downtown Cleveland Alliance. This visionary group of civic and corporate leaders understood that well-designed and well-programmed public spaces create a sense of community and transform neighborhoods. The early and significant commitment of the Cleveland Foundation and Gund Foundation spurred additional funding, ensuring the construction of Public Square would be complete on time and on budget for the Republican National Convention.
BIG IMPACT
Well-programmed and well-maintained public spaces create neighborhoods that spark a sense of community and attract development and investment. Since the introduction of the plan for Public Square, the Mall and the Pedestrian Bridge, businesses and investors have made it a priority to further develop the area around Public Square. K&G Group purchased Terminal Tower and the Post Office Building, with plans to turn portions of Terminal Tower into apartments. Bedrock Properties, with owner Dan Gilbert’s continued investment in Cleveland, purchased Tower City and several adjoining buildings and parking lots to cater to Cavs and JACK Casino fans and guests. Millennia purchased Key Tower for $267.5 million and is making $20 million in improvements to the Tower, while also creating downtown living opportunities at 75 Public Square. Weston is tuning The Standard into the new downtown standard — apartments and condos just off the Square.

And, this is just the beginning. The participation of some of Cleveland’s most prestigious investors showcases the impact of Public Square’s transformation. It’s a jolt that will be felt throughout the neighborhood for decades to come as downtown Cleveland continues to attract residents and draw attention and tourism through its culinary, musical, theatrical and medical industries.

INSTANT SUCCESS
The design executed by the Group Plan Commission not only attracted the attention of local investors; the private, public and civic sectors quickly said yes to the community’s responsibility of transforming Public Square into a premier urban park. In doing so, they raised $50 million to reinvent this revered city center. The result is a design that conveys Cleveland’s reverence as a thriving place to live, work and play. Public Square, with national attention from events including the RNC, 2016 World Series, telecasts of “American Ninja Warrior” and 2018 Women’s March on Cleveland that drew 15,000 people, has proven itself a fitting representative of the city. With all hands on deck, the Group Plan Commission, as well as the private, public and civic partners that settled for no less than excellence in design and programming, has accomplished its mission of ensuring Public Square functions as it was originally intended — a hub of transportation, dining, entertainment and culture that attracts residents and visitors from around the world.

PUBLIC SQUARE: A THRIVING NEIGHBORHOOD
With a $50 million investment that has been embraced by locals and visitors alike, the community has accomplished the extraordinary — transforming Public Square into a flourishing neighborhood. As residents move into Terminal Tower, 75 Public Square and The Standard, as well as apartments along Euclid Avenue, increased activity is making Public Square an even more dynamic place to live, work and play.

And, like all urban parks that create a sense of neighborhood, programming and high-quality maintenance are the keys to success. The Group Plan Commission, with intentions to maintain this level of care, is seeking partners to help provide programming and deliver on the needs of the community. Organizations interested in participating in the transformation of downtown’s premier neighborhood should contact the Group Plan Commission at 216-503-8103.

DUTIFUL DESIGN MAINTAINS TRANSFORMATION HUB
In partnership with the Group Plan Commission, LAND Studio recruited famed landscape architectural firm James Corner Field Operations to create the transformation plan. The internal team, LAND Studio and Group Plan Commission team, as well as law enforcement and traffic engineer partners at the city, county, regional and federal governments, carefully scrutinized the design.

With 35,000 workers using the city’s transit lines inside Tower City and bus lines in, around and through Public Square, as well as the significant hotel presence with the Ritz, Renaissance, Marriott and new Hilton, ensuring the Square’s continued use as a hub of transportation became a key element to the overall design. With strong planning and attention to detail, Public Square was transformed on time and on budget.

SOMETIMES, THINGS CHANGE
While the design of Public Square met the highest architectural standards and addressed gatherings in public spaces, world incidents since the implementation of the approved design resulted in a re-examination of the Square. The original team reconvened and brought in James Corner Field Operations to develop a modified design that would taper Superior Avenue and make possible the installation of removable bollards.
