TREMONT Farmers Market Runs Through the End of September - Bring Aluminum Cans to CLEANGarbage Recycling’s Tent!

It’s hard to believe we get to enjoy the Tremont Farmers Market for only one more month. It has been a great season! We were happy to have the new addition of CleanGarbage Recycling at the Market. Since the City of Cleveland’s Recycling Program is on hold, three Tremont residents, Deborah Smith, Dave Freitag and Viktor Kitsis came together to assist other Tremont residents in keeping their aluminum cans out of the landfill.

Their mission is to create a grassroots, community-based, comprehensive recycling program here in our amazing Tremont neighborhood. Our plan is to implement recycling in a stepwise fashion, starting with aluminum collection. Our first presence in Tremont will be at the Farmers Market every Tuesday. If you are committed to recycling, please visit our booth and drop off clean aluminum cans. And stay tuned for more information on drop off locations, residential collection, and expansion to glass, metal, paper, and plastic. Together, let’s help save this planet! See you Tuesday!

Welcome, Cleveland Fresh, Winner of the Tremont Storefront Incubator Program!

Tenisha Velez launched Cleveland Fresh a few years ago and has some commercial clients including Fat Cats here in Tremont. This new opportunity of having a storefront to sell her microgreens out of is a dream come true for Tanisha. Tanisha is a person who loves her community and looks for ways in which she can help others. Her passion for microgreens came out of a revelation she had during the time she had many family members and friends in Puerto Rico after Hurricane Maria who needed a way to grow healthy food quickly.

Have you heard of microgreens? They are veggies or herbs that are harvested in the second stage of life of the plant (10-20 days). They are not sprouts, with sprouts you eat the root, the seed hull and greens. Microgreens are grown in soil and are harvested above the soil so you would not eat the seed hulls or the roots. Tanisha shares that microgreens are 40 times more nutritional than its regular adult version of the plant. There have been studies in major Universities that say they are shown to help with cancer, diabetes and obesity. Why is this? The seed has so much nutrition in itself that when it is growing it’s using its own nutrients, not like adult plants you kind of have to give it something to be more productive and successful.

In their new storefront, Cleveland Fresh will be focusing on the microgreens and customers can come and ask questions about the micros, order some fresh cut micros. To start, they will offer: arugula, pea shoots, sunflower shoots, broccoli, mixes, radishes, cilantro, and mustard. The list will continue to grow as they grow. The microgreens are great on soups, salads, and even to make smoothies to add extra nutrients to our children’s diet. They will be adding a hydroponic window farm for growing lettuce. Stop by and say hello!

Merrick House Updates Including: Tremont Youth Council Member Wins Second Place in A Statewide Pitch Competition!

“Do you ride the bus? And are you tired of having nowhere to sit and don’t want to touch those nasty handlebars especially with Coronavirus lurking around the corner?” “Grip a Bus” is a business idea pitched by Sauda Rashid (photographed at the right) for the Ohio Afterschool Network’s Summer Pitch Challenge. It is a washable fabric hand pull with a rubber grip that enables bus riders to steady themselves without having to touch handles. Sauda, who is entering the 10th grade at Campus International High School, learned about entrepreneurship over the summer as part of Merrick House’s Youth Council Entrepreneurship Program. Merrick House, located in the Tremont neighborhood, is dedicated to lifting lives and strengthening communities. The Youth Council Entrepreneurship Program fosters the development of communication, leadership, and entrepreneurship skills. Sauda’s pitch won second place in the 9th-12th grade category of the Ohio Afterschool Network’s (OAN) Summer Pitch Challenge. OAN is partnering with the Young Entrepreneurs Institute to bring entrepreneurship to summer and afterschool programs across the state and help youth learn about and strengthen their “entrepreneurial mindset.” You can watch her pitch here: https://www.facebook.com/118735121519665/posts/3281982531857549.

In addition to Sauda, Laila Scott and Emmanuel Williams finished second and third in the Merrick House Challenge for High School students. Areonna Sadder won first place, Mykaila Scott and Logan Price finished second and third for the Merrick House Middle School Challenge. All of the youth did an excellent job. We would like to thank Patrick Perkins of City Connects, Latia Rodriguez of Cafe Social Latin American, and Camille Brown of Youth Opportunities Unlimited for serving as judges for the Merrick House Pitch Challenge. Thank you to the sponsor of the event AceroFilttal. Congratulations, Sauda, and to all the other youth who participated in the Merrick House Challenge.

Tremont History Project

From Saturday, July 4, 2020 Plain Dealer article about Elliot Ness titled. How Elliot Ness fought the ‘evil system’. The below was written in the larger context of a Black Lives Matter article.

(Tremont History Project’s note: In 1935, Elliot Ness became the public safety director of Cleveland - he left Cleveland in 1942. He is buried in Lakeview Cemetery.)

“One project, above all, epitomized Ness’ vision for modern policing. Beginning in 1936, he and a select group of officers worked with at-risk youth in Tremont, an impoverished, largely immigrant neighborhood where juvenile crime had risen to alarming levels.

Ness met repeatedly with Tremont’s youth gangs, listening to their requests for recreation centers and employment opportunities, and formed a Juvenile Bureau made up of plainclothes officers determined to avoid arresting anyone. As the Cleveland Police provided the social services Ness’s youth asked for, rates of juvenile crime dropped dramatically.”

“Ness described this as ‘crime prevention,’ arguing it made more sense to devote relatively few resources to fixing social problems than waste large amounts of money on repressive tactics and incarceration.”

Welcome, Dance Arts by Regina

2431 W. 5th St.
Cleveland, Ohio 44113
danceartsbyregina.com

Since moving to her first apartment on Professor Avenue in 2010, local dancer Regina Pietraroia has dreamed of bringing a studio to the area. On a bike ride during the long months of Covid-quarantine, she passed a building that sparked a sense of possibility on the corner of West 5th and Jefferson.

Three weeks later, when the storefront windows were revealed, she knew it was time to make the call.

Dance Arts has had a studio location in North Royallton for four years, where dancers of all ages study with professional instructors and have the opportunity to perform at a variety of venues around Northeast Ohio. Prior to opening her school, Regina performed professionally with several companies in the area, including Ohio Dance Theatre. She continued to perform as a freelance artist, until Covid-19 cancelled all of her spring and summer shows...but without the added downtime brought on by the pandemic, Ms. Pietraroia may have never noticed this incredible opportunity.

Pietraroia began teaching dance in the Tremont neighborhood in 2012, under the name “Miss Regina’s Ballerinas.” Over the years, her classes have served families from all over the near west side of Cleveland and the city of Lakewood. As the areas of Ohio City, Detroit-Shoreway, and Tremont have all continued to develop, Ms. Pietraroia sees there is a real need for more family-oriented activities, and hopes her new studio can provide a place for the community to safely come together.

Registration for all ages are up on the website. All students will be expected to adhere to social distancing guidelines. For more information, contact Regina at 440-230-9018 or DanceArtsbyRegina@gmail.com, or visit the website danceartsbyregina.com.

Welcome, Regina, to your new home in Tremont!
The Library reopens its doors to visitors and resumes computer usage and other services

Missed your neighborhood branch of Cleveland Public Library? Well, the wait is over. The Library’s downtown locations and 27 neighborhood branches will welcome visitors inside starting Monday, August 24. Reopening date is subject to change due to the pandemic.

“We can’t wait to see our patrons inside our buildings again. It’s been a long journey and a lot of planning to get to this moment,” said Felton Thomas, Jr., Executive Director and CEO of Cleveland Public Library. “COVID-19 will forever change the Library experience. However, our top-notch customer service and Library rich programming to educate and enrich our community will remain the same.”

When our facilities reopen, visitors will notice new social distancing guidelines and Library staff in personal protective equipment. Visitors are required to wear face coverings for the safety of staff and the public. The Library will make disposable masks available to patrons. Other changes include plexiglass on the lending desks, increased cleaning of facilities, and returned materials placed under quarantine for 96 hours to prevent the spread of COVID-19.

Cleveland Public Library’s hours of operation are also changing. There will be special hours for immunocompromised patrons.

Cleveland Public Library will monitor visitor capacity and limit visits to one-hour to allow everyone who wants to visit the Library to access our materials and resources safely.

Computers will be available again. The Library has reconfigured computer rooms and areas for social distancing. Computer usage will be limited to one hour to allow for cleaning and more people to access the internet. Patrons are encouraged to reserve a time slot on cpl.org and will be asked to help keep the Library clean by wiping down the area after use. All meeting rooms will remain closed to reservations.

“We listened to our patrons. Our goal has always been to provide what they want and need,” said Harriette Parks, Director of Public Services at Cleveland Public Library. “After countless internal planning meetings, reviewing guidance from state and local officials, consulting other Library systems, and conferring with local experts like MetroHealth, the Library has developed a plan to provide a safe environment for our staff and patrons while maintaining a level of service that our community has grown accustomed to from us.”

Cleveland Public Library will continue to offer walk-up and drive-up service, as well as print, fax, and copy services. Patrons can now receive 10 free copies and can text their local branch when they arrive.

Grab and go meals are still available at all Cleveland Public Library locations. Meals will be provided daily to children age 18 and under. Families can call their closest Library branch for meal pickup times.

The Library will provide virtual programs until further notice. Our offerings include job and legal assistance, health classes, online storytime, and starting this Fall, a year-round program, and resources to help our littlest Clevelanders get ready for kindergarten. No internet? No problem! Dial-a-Story is coming this Fall. It allows families to call in to a special phone number to listen to several children’s classics such as Pinocchio and Alice in Wonderland.

Don’t delay. Cancer screenings save lives.

For the past few months, life as we know it has been paused by COVID-19. Now that healthcare facilities in Ohio have resumed routine outpatient visits, it’s important to reschedule any preventive screenings or medical appointments that were canceled or postponed due to the coronavirus pandemic.

“The virus is still a concern, but so are other health issues like cancer,” says Abdo Haddad, MD, a specialist in hematology and medical oncology who treats patients at Cleveland Clinic Fairview Hospital, Avon Hospital, and Richard E. Jacobs Health Center. “If you are ignoring symptoms or putting off seeing your doctor, don’t delay.”

Symptoms that may be of concern to check for cancer can include:

- Changes in bowel or bladder habits including blood in stool or urine.
- Cough or hoarseness that persists or changes.
- Easy bruising or bleeding.
- Fatigue or unexplained weight loss.
- Unexplained fevers.
- Unexplained skin moles, especially if they are dark or change color.

“It’s important to continue to receive regular screenings, from mammograms and PAP smears to skin checks and colonoscopies,” says Dr. Haddad. “Some cancers grow slowly, others quickly, but in all cases, early diagnosis can help increase the chance of cure.”

Cleveland Clinic facilities are among the safest places in healthcare today. We’ve taken many steps to keep everyone safe while fulfilling our mission to be the best place for care, whenever it is needed.

Learn more about the steps we’re taking to keep you safe at ClevelandClinic.org/Coronavirus.

If you’re experiencing any symptoms or have questions about cancer screenings, please reach out to your primary care provider.
